Australian Prophet

TED KENNEDY (1931–2005)

“Father to the poor and the dispossessed ... the friendly face of the Church for thousands of Aborigines as he spoke the truths of their loss to the conquerors' world. Aboriginal people took this white priest into their hearts and made him part of their own story”.

PETER KEARNEY

Peter first met Ted Kennedy in 1966 and was encouraged by him to write his first folk-hymns including ‘Fill My House’ and ‘The Beatitudes’. Peter later wrote many songs of justice and reconciliation inspired by Ted’s ministry and a friendship of over forty years. Since 1982, Peter has made music his full time work— singing his songs through Australia and overseas. Fourteen CDs of his songs and hymns have been published.
